MOONEY LEAVES SAN QUENTIN

Ashlander to Fight Ault Ouster

OHIO HIGHWAY WORKER PLANS COURT ACTION

Supervisor Whose Post Was Abolished by Director, Promises 'Fireworks.'

TESTIFIED AGAINST AULT

State Employe For 16 Years Told Job Vacated 'As Matter of Economy.'

Robert M. Greenlun of Ashland, one of the men whose testimony helped to convict State Highway Director Ivan R, Ault of illegally soliciting campaign contributions for Gov. Martin L. Davey, today mapped plans to retain his job as supervisor of route markings in Division No. 3.

Ault, who received a full pardon yesterday from Governor Davey, ordered the position held by Greenlun abolished and combined with that of superintendent of guard rails. The order was effective today.

Civil Service Employe.

Greenlun has been an employe in the state highway department for 16 years. He has been supervisor of route marking in division 3, since 1926 and is a civil service employe.

Ault's letter to Greenlun said that his position had been abolished due to the "lack of work and as a matter of economy."

Reached by telephone today, Greenlun told The News-Journal that he planned to fight ouster proceedings against him.

"I'm not going to step out of the job and there'll be plenty of fireworks before they get rid of me," he said.

Confers With Attorneys.

Greenlun said he had already conferred with attorneys about taking legal action to retain his position and promised a "definite" move with the next few days. He did not elaborate on the statement.

Ashland County Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling who obtained Ault's conviction regarded as trivial the abolishment of Greenlun's position.

"I don't see how the civil service commission can condone that," the prosecutor said.

He added:

"I was interested mainly in the conviction, but I think the pardon places blame for the charge against Ault on Governor Davey, where it belongs."

Davey said yesterday in announcing Ault's pardon that the law under which a Mt. Vernon jury of six men and six women convicted the director was a "dead letter."

Dinners Tonight To Cost Dems $25 To $100 a Plate

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Thousands of Democrats will attend banquets tonight to honor Andrew Jackson, try to get their party out of the red—at $20 to $100 a plate—and hear President Roosevelt deliver a major address.

There is speculation here as to whether Mr. Roosevelt will attempt in his talk to heal party wounds inflicted last year when he intervened in Democratic primary campaigns against candidates he called too conservative.

In the capital, the party's faithful will pay $100 for a $5 dinner and the privilege of seeing as well as hearing the president.

New Yorkers will pay $50 each; party members elsewhere $25. And will all hear broadcasts of the president's address. All three nation-wide radio chains will carry the speech at 9:30 p. m.

Judging by previous Jackson day celebrations, the Democratic national committee's cash register should ring loudly. Committee members are confident that tonight's receipts will wipe out the party's present $200,000 deficit.

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, O.—(AP)—In a grave he dug for himself 18 months ago, James Cook, 80-year-old caretaker of a cemetery, was buried today.

3 Quizzed In Quarry Murder at Marysville

Trio Jailed Soon After Prosecutor Hints at Approaching 'Break.'

(By Associated Press)

MARYSVILLE—Three persons living near the abandoned quarry where Clark S. Hayes' weighted body was found under 22 feet of ice water the day after his contemplated marriage were subjected to searching questioning today.

The suspects were lodged in Union county jail here soon after Prosecutor William J. Porter predicted a "break" in the mystery surrounding the brutal slaying of the 26-year-old grocery employe of nearby Summersville.

Three other persons, all members of one family, were questioned briefly last night and released, Porter said. Directing the grilling was Sgt. C. C. Cole, head of the Columbus police department's homicide squad.

He was assisted by Sheriff Homer Roosa of Union county, Sheriff Oscar George of Morrow county and state highway patrolmen.

Hayes disappeared Tuesday night on the eve of his wedding to Miss Oletha Morrow, 26, while on a store assignment. His delivery truck was found near the quarry with a large stone on the cab floor. When his body was recovered Thursday by a professional diver, a bruise was found on his head.

Coroner J. M. Foster returned a verdict of murder by drowning and said an autopsy showed that Hayes was alive, but probably unconscious, when he slipped into the ice-locked pit with a stone laden milk can wired to him. A hole chopped in the ice led to the quarry search.

Clues were few and the apparent absence of a motive for the slaying puzzled authorities. At first it was reported that the investigation had narrowed to a single suspect but later Foster asserted the killing was done by "at least two men."

CLARK HAYES

A startling development in the case was the apparently attempted theft of Hayes' body from a morgue across from the county jail.

Sheriff Roosa said Undertaker E. S. Faulkner was awakened before dawn yesterday but the intruder fled.

The body later was brought to the home of Hayes' mother here pending burial Sunday at York Center, the community where his intended bride resides.

Sewage Plant's Efficiency Hits 97 Per Cent, New High

December Best Month on Record With Fully Treated Sewage 88 Per Cent Pure, Report Reveals.

The Mansfield sewage treatment plant increased its efficiency during December to a new high both in volume of sewage treated and the percentage of purification, Plant Superintendent J. R. Turner reported today.

His report showed that 97 per cent of all sewage entering the plant was given full treatment, as compared with 86 per cent during November, and only 26 per cent during December of 1937.

It also showed that sewage given full treatment had a purification percentage of 88 per cent.

69 Million Gallons Treated.

A total of 71 million gallons of sewage entered the plant in December, Turner said, and 69 million gallons were given full treatment Only two million gallons were by-passed and then only after a 50 per cent treatment in primary tanks, he said.

The percentage of purification during December showed a 5 per cent increase over the percentage of purification during November and a 26 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year.

Turner pointed out that the percentage figures showing the increases on treatment and purification indicated that the bacteri-

'WRONG BREAK'

Gimp Visibly Moved as Judge Gives Him Up to 20 Years.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Martin Snyder, sentenced to "not more than 20 years" in prison for shooting Myrl Alderman — now married to songstress Ruth Etting, Snyder's former wife—read mystery stories in his jail cell today while his attorney mapped an appeal.

"It's a wrong break," Snyder muttered yesterday as Superior Judge Thomas L. Ambrose pronounced sentence. "The Gimp," as intimates in New York and Chicago know him, bit his lip in a vain attempt to keep back the tears.

Snyder's attorney, Jerry Geisler, filed a written notice of appeal from the jury's verdict of guilty of attempted murder, but lost an effort to have Snyder released on bail meanwhile.

Munkacs Cleans Up Debris Of Battle As Guns Cease Fire Pending Arbitration.

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST — Hungarians engaged in cleaning up after the one-day battle in the nation's post-Munich border announced today that 40 Czechoslovaks and seven Hungarians had been killed.

The Hungarian dead included one officer hit by a shell fragment at the Hotel Osillag in Munkacs, the town ceded to Hungary by Czechoslovakia at the Nov. 2 Vienna arbitration award of Italy and Germany.

200 Homes Damaged.

The official Hungarian report added that 200 houses in Munkacs, center of yesterday's battle, were damaged by Czechoslovak shellfire.

When the Czechoslovak forces retreated, Hungarians declared they took hostages with them from the Hungarian village of Oroszveg which they occupied for a few hours.

Thousands of Hungarian troops, meanwhile, were moved up to the zone of yesterday's sporadic hostilities.

The truce was arranged after a day of fighting, and the quarrel was turned over last night to political leaders of the two countries.

Czechoslovak artillery, however, still covered Munkacs, a city of 30,000 which was ceded to Hungary recently in the territorial revision resulting from the Munich agreement.

House Opposition Grows Over $875,000,000 Relief Request

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Subsurface evidence of the temper of the new house indicated powerful opposition to President Roosevelt's request for $875,000,000 to continue relief until July 1.

Members of the house appropriations deficiency subcommittee refused to talk for publication after a day of testimony by Col. F. C. Harrington, Works Progress administrator, but it was learned many of them doubted the full amount would be granted.

One member—Rep. John Taber, R., N. Y.,—was more forthright.

"I don't think," he said, "that more than one vote will be cast for the $875,000,000 figure in our subcommittee."

Harrington, speaking to newspaper reporters between sessions of the committee, warned that a cut to $500,000,000 — the figure suggested by subcommittee Chairman Clifton A. Woodrum, D., Va., before Mr. Roosevelt's message reached congress — would mean "very drastic reduction" in relief employment.

One committeeman said it would mean slashing the WPA rolls from their present figure of slightly more than 3,000,000 to around 1,500,000.

There are 117 new members of the house, many of whom are reserving judgment on relief until Harrington's policies are more clearly delineated, it was said.

AGREE TO VOTE ON COURTHOUSE

Commissioners Say Proposed County Building Hinges On Public Sentiment.

The Richland County Bar association's proposal for a new courthouse gained momentum today, with county commissioners agreeing to submit the proposition to the voters, "if there is enough sentiment for the plan."

Approval by the bar association at a meeting yesterday, the plan calls for construction of a new courthouse and jail combined on the site of the present county jail, or installation of an elevator in the old courthouse if there is no immediate possibility of obtaining a new building.

"We admit the present courthouse is inadequate and are in favor of a new one if voters want to pass a bond issue to finance the project," C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, asserted.

"The county has no funds for a new building, so it is entirely up to the people whether the plan for a courthouse goes through," he added.

Pointing out that the bar association committee's estimate of $5,000 for an elevator in the old building, "probably is far too low," Mitchell said the commissioners "would be interested any time in an elevator at that price."

He added that a previous estimate placed the probable cost at from $8,000 to $12,000.

Atty. George W. Biddle, chairman of the bar association's committee on the courthouse plan, emphasized at yesterday's meeting that now is the ideal time to start a move for a new building since a federal PWA allotment may be available and the county's bonded debt will be paid off next year.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the county's debt is slightly under $100,000, all of which will be paid by the end of 1940. He said, however, that there was no chance for a bond issue or tax levy for a new building without a vote.

FAMED LABOR PRISONER GETS PARDON TODAY

Hearing Certain To Give Full Freedom To Convict After 22-Year Fight.

LAUGHS, JOKES, WEEPS

'Wonderful To Be Out,' He Says as Prison Doors Open For Meeting With Governor.

(By United Press)

SAN QUENTIN, Cal. — Thomas Mooney, world's most famous prisoner, left San Quentin prison today for Sacramento to attend a hearing that is certain to result in his immediate pardon by Governor Culbert Olson as the climax to a 22-year-old fight for freedom.

White haired and stout, Mooney was unable to conceal his excitement as he left the prison that had been his home for 22 years—since his death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment to life imprisonment for San Francisco's 1916 Preparedness day bombings.

Meets Relatives, Friends.

He laughed, joked and wept as he met friends and relatives outside the prison gate. He left in an automobile with his attorney, George T. Davis, who has waged a long fight for his freedom, and with Court Smith, San Quentin warden.

Mooney's fight has been compared to that of the Frenchman Alfred Dreyfus, a political martyr.

Mooney retains his membership in the Moulders Union of the American Federation of Labor, but the AFL and the Congress for Industrial Organizations forgot their differences in celebrating his release.

Mooney said he would devote the rest of his life to the labor unity and to fighting for Warren K. Billings' release. He calls Billings the "forgotten man" in the case.

Wears Prison Suit.

Mooney wore a new prison-made "going out" suit, a dark overcoat and a light hat.

He posed happily for pictures.

"It's wonderful to be out, fellows," he said.

Those who welcomed Mooney at the gate included his brother, John Mooney, San Francisco street car conductor.

Mooney's wife, Mrs. Rena Herman Mooney, and his sister, Anna Mooney, who for years have led

Only half the original starters remained. The record, 4 hours 12 minutes, 28 seconds, is held by Jacqueline Cochran of New York City.

After 22 Years -- Free

"I didn't sleep much last night, I guess I was pretty much like a kid on Christmas eve," Mooney said. The pardon, due this afternoon, ends the labor leader's 22-year fight for freedom following the fatal Prepardness day parade bombing of 1916.

A Farmer's Diary

The Old Spring Wagon.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I RODE to town with a neighbor on a spring wagon.

"It ain't in the auto class," he said, "but it does my gaddin' around, and 'tain't expensive. I have to feed these nags all winter long, and I might as well use 'em."

The yellow bed was about fourteen feet long, perched high above two large oval springs in the back, at right angles with the rear axle, and one heavier front spring parallel with the front one.

The under framework was red, as were the wheels and tongue. The brake was a strong iron cross beam, with white oak blocks that fit into steel slots in front of each rear wheel. A long iron rod was attached to this sliding beam and connected with a lever at the driver's seat.

"It'll haul a heavy load," he said. "I had a ton on the other day and it rode as smooth as a sled. This grist ain't heavy, and we know the road is rough."

We did know it. As we sat upon the high-backed seat with a worn sheepskin for a cushion, we bounced up and down like rubber balls, jostling against each other. Yet I enjoyed it. It brought me memories.

Years ago my father owned a spring wagon identical in structure, with bed painted blue, and yellow running gears. On this conveyance we went to church and Sunday school. It had three seats on which eight members of the family sat.

Four times a year we visited my grandfather and two uncles, at the great distance of ten miles. The road followed a lovely valley, through which a large, clear stream flowed, fed by numerous springs. On the way we passed three mills, run by water wheels. For weeks we children talked about this wonderful trip and dreamed with glee of when we would take another long ride.

I doubt whether the motor cars in which we ride so comfortably today can give bigger thrills or happier memories than that old, three-seated, blue spring wagon did.

Creamed Foods Suggested

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

CREAM IT! There's a cooking direction worth following. These two small words are bywords to guide you when you want smoothness, mellowness and flavor. Even the dictionary lists "luscious" as a synonym for "creamy," so there's printed proof for anyone who demands it.

To "cream it" means a number of things (all good). It may mean folding in or adding cream to your recipe; it may mean a thorough blending of the ingredients, and it often means beating until creamy. Then, to appreciate creaminess, you need a texture contrast. Chewy dates or crunchy nutmeats accentuate the melting creaminess. So here we come with some creamy recipes to smooth the way to nice menus.

Banana Dressing.

Banana cream dressing is an old smoothie if ever we knew one! Fold half a ripe banana mashed into one-third of a cup of whipping cream that has been well whipped. Add one-third cup mayonnaise and three-quarters teaspoon salt. It makes one cup of dressing. Bananas, perhaps the creamiest of all fruits, find their place in a delicate, creamy spice cake. It calls for one and one-half cups sifted flour, teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon each baking soda and salt, one-eighth teaspoon cloves, three-quarters teaspoon cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg, one-third cup shortening, two-thirds cup sugar, teaspoon vanilla extract, one well-beaten egg and three-quarters cup fully ripe bananas (about two bananas). Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and spices. Rub the shortening to a creamy consistency with back of a spoon. Stir the sugar, a few tablespoons at the time, into the shortening and continue stirring after each addition until light and fluffy. Stir in vanilla. Add egg and beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with banana, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake in 350 F. oven about 45 minutes or until cake is done.

Creamy, Crunchy.

Brazil nut marshmallow manages to be both creamy and crunchy. Take one-half pound marshmallows, one-half cup diced canned pineapple, one three-ounce package cherries, three-quarters cup sliced Brazil nuts, salt, one cup cream and six whole Brazil nuts. Cut marshmallows into eighths with wet knife. Combine with pineapple, cherries, reserving six cherries for garnish, and sliced Brazil nuts. Add salt to cream and whip until thick. Fold in marshmallow mixture. Pile in sherbet glasses and chill several hours. Garnish with candied cherries and whole nuts.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, January 8.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds excellent promise for advancement and definite progress in all affairs pertaining to intellectual, cultural and spiritual programs and aspirations. It is a time to concentrate on these with force and resolution, although not with over-strenuous or too zealous methods. Impetuosity, rashness, disputes and tumult may nullify sound efforts. Travel is gainful.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much liveliness and enterprise in business, especially that concerned with writings, publishing, promotions and advertising. However, such application, if carried to excess by overstrenuous or agitated measures, may prove a handicap. Beware of turbulence, strife, contention and any sort of overindulgence. Travel may be profitable. Use tact rather than force issues.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile and clever, possibly to the point of spectacular brilliance, particularly with tongue or pen. Its ardor and enthusiasm may carry it to rather perilous or inharmonious expression, or to exaggerated dramatic heights.

For Monday, January 9.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of sudden and surprising events of a rather radical nature. There might be drastic upheavals which, while having the semblance of devastation, really may develop as implements of progress and achievement in unusual lines of effort. This may bring new surroundings, fresh contacts and revamped objectives. These may not be put over without some strenuous upsets or obstacles, but eventually tact, shrewdness and good friends may assist to high adventure and thrilling romance.

Those whose birthday it is may suddenly find themselves precipitated into a situation of upheaval or disintegration, at first doubtful and difficult, but really with ultimate benefits of a high order. This may come in new fields of experience and expression. Adventure, romance and fine social and emotional comradeship may figure conspicuously. Pursue the new with stimulated genius and attack.

A child born on this day may be original, inventive, adventurous and audacious in pursuit of the new, strange and novel. It may travel far in research or scientific invention, and may achieve a spectacular place for itself by its creative genius or romantic experiences. Its life may be quite dramatic or unique.

Never throw away bones left from a roast or shoulder. Put them on in cold water and if cooked several hours, a very good soup may be obtained with the addition of diced vegetables.

Long Courted, No Offer of Marriage

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

It has been seven years now since I started going with Fred; he is 27 and I am 24. He used to speak of marriage, but now, if anyone ever mentions it, he turns it off by saying he doesn't make enough money to support a wife. He won't consent to my going out with other boys, because he says he doesn't go out with other girls. I love him dearly, but it hurts me so much when he assumes this attitude. Can he really care, or does he just go with me for company?

PUZZLED

It's very unfair of him to object to your making any friends, when a seven-year companionship has not been productive of anything more than excuses for not marrying. I think it would be a good plan to make some new friends, rather than waste your precious youth in this way.

* * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There are two girls who have played an important role in my life. One is 21 and right now isn't working, and insists on my coming to see her. She also tells me she loves me, but I cannot make up my mind as to my feelings for her.

The other girl has been a very dear friend for many years. She is 22 and has every quality that to me would make a wonderful wife. When I asked her to marry me, she did not actually refuse me, but says she does not love me. Please can you tell me how I can win her love, as I feel she's the girl for me, and life would be empty without her. I truly love her. I'm 26 years old and my position warrants me a steady income, enough to give her a happy home with comforts.

IN DOUBT

You say you've met the ideal girl. But she tells you she doesn't love you enough to marry you. Then, there's really nothing to do but wait until you can make her change her mind.

As for the other girl—no law can compel you to visit a girl you don't care to see. I don't quite understand her insisting, unless she has some claim on you.

Apples that are to be baked should be pricked with a fork before being placed in the oven. If you do this you will find they will not break while cooking.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I probably was busy when you were talking and misunderstood you," I said demurely, but with a rebellious impulse to say flatly: "But you did say it."

Dicky shot a quick shrewd look at me.

"That's your best stunt, misunderstanding," he growled. Then he gave me an embarrassed grin, and I knew that he not only was placated but was fairly well ashamed of himself as well. He also knew he had not fooled me in the least.

"Not that I wouldn't like to take him," he went on hurriedly. "It would be a lot less trouble. I've got to get hold of one of your father's men—because they can be trusted not to talk—and have him take Noel out there. Let's see! how will we manage it?"

His question was purely rhetorical, I knew, and I maintained a discreet silence.

"I have it!" he went on after the fraction of a second spent with eyes upraised to the ceiling. "Have Noel take a taxi from here, ostensibly to the ——." He named the old-fashioned hotel where we had stayed during one of our former sojourns in the city. "The bell boys never are much in evidence around there, and Noel will be able to pay his taxi driver, get out with his bag, and whip around the corner before the bell boys wake up, or anybody notices him. I'll arrange to have the man waiting around the corner with his car from ten o'clock in the morning on, day after tomorrow. He'll have a tiny red ribbon in his button hole—foreign decoration effect—and Noel will ask him his name. If he responds, 'John Adams,' Noel will say in an undertone, 'Thomas Jefferson.' Then the man will take him to the farm."

"I can't see a single flaw in the plan," I told him, and Dicky grinned a trifle smugly.

"It ought to do," he said. "Now unless I telephone you differently, have Noel get over there no later than five minutes after ten."

"I'll see that he gets there on time unless you telephone me differently," I repeated obediently, as my husband paused, and he gave me a sudden impish grin.

Dicky Embarrassed.

"All right, Patient Griselda," he gibed. "Now, we'd better go on to the next stunt, for I'll not be seeing you until you're back at the Lansfield."

I knew that above everything else I must pretend ignorance of his anxiety, so I simply said in most matter-of-fact tones: "I suppose that will be safer," and with a subtly relieved look my husband nodded.

"Much safer," he agreed. "Now here is what you'd better do—."

He picked up the letter I had written to Miss Whitlock, for Dicky's friend, Thorp, to mail, and put it into his inside coat pocket.

"If you'll get pencil and paper," he said, "I'll give you my plan."

ROMANCE, INC. + + +

CHAPTER 41

Sara Sue Davis told herself that never in all her 23 years had she attended any social function as lovely as this. Not even when Larry had been courting her. For that matter, not many dances of this magnitude had ever been given in Houston.

"I am so happy, T. J.!" she told him, squeezing his arm a little as they danced.

And he, poor fellow, misunderstood.

When she said that, a grand something welled within him. T. J. Sanders was inherently a gentleman, for all his noisy talk and banter at times. He was not noisy now. His rather pretty eyes were misty as he gazed down at his girl.

"Sara Sue!" he murmured. "Sara Sue."

It was all he could say, then. He held her a little closer and danced on. What he really wanted to say shouldn't be shouted, and he would have almost to shout to make her hear above the music and gaiety around them. "You're so sweet!" he whispered in her ear. She made no response. She was content just to dance on, happy in the companionship of youth.

* * *

She noted many of her own cottage customers present; boys and girls whom she had introduced and big-sistered along this fall. She knew that four or five fine romances had bloomed among them. Some of them had required spiritual nursing, but Sara Sue felt that she had brought happiness to most of them.

Bob Towne cut in then, and promptly announced, "I've got something important to tell you, when we get a minute, Sara Sue."

She just smiled. Bob was always full of "important" ideas. Good old Bob. She treasured his friendship. She wishes he wouldn't make love to her. She had noticed how all the other girls seemed thrilled when Bob danced with them. Bob Towne, hero of the day. He who had grabbed a fast pass in the second quarter and fought his way for the game's only touchdown. "The bes' end man in the United States, law me!" Calculus Jones had declared exuberantly, and perhaps without exaggeration. People were saying Bob would surely make All-American.

The football team had ridden in cars to the big pep parade downtown, then had (under Coach Britt's orders) sprawled on their beds for an hour of rest, so that they could enjoy the dance. They had been individually introduced (as if they needed introduction!) when they came into the ballroom, the master of ceremonies making just the right little speech about each man. Similar courtesy was shown the Mexican players, who really had earned everybody's respect. Nobody could feel badly about losing a game, 6-0, against a team of Rice's caliber. The captain, Don Romero Celiedor, had congratulated the winners, smilingly paid high tribute to their sportsmanship, invited them to Mexico City another year. The applause had been prolonged.

"They are such courteous boys, the Mexicans, aren't they, T. J.?" Sara Sue was saying. "They bow and speak like knights or something, when they ask for a dance."

Early she had noted Thornton Holgate dancing, and apparently enjoying himself. "High jinks, Thorny?" she called in passing him. He smiled his happiness. She hadn't seen him lately, though. Sara Sue wondered where Peaches Pomeroy was. Peaches also had disappeared after the first long intermission. "I hope she doesn't manage to spoil Thorny's evening," Sara Sue mused.

She saw Marcia Gurley beaming like somebody's little sister, in the arms of a Mexican fullback twice her size. The big fellow had to bend away over to hold the dainty Rice girl. It was almost comical. "Twist him around your finger, Marcia, honey!" Sara Sue called. Marcia winked back. The music was fast now, and two couples could not stay near each other for long.

Sara Sue hadn't seen Worthington Gurley since he checked in her coat—she had teased him good-naturedly for being a slime—until this moment on the dance floor.

By chance now she saw him dart out of a hallway, pause a moment, then run toward the door. She thought that his expression was peculiarly strained. Oh, well, probably just the sophomores up to more devilment.

But for once it wasn't the sophomores, of course.

That was the moment when Worthington had just seen Peaches Pomeroy slip the bracelet in the lining of Sara Sue's coat.

He had watched Peaches in utter astonishment. And he had concluded, rightly, that this was no hazing stunt, not devilment, but deviltry. He knew Peaches hated Sara Sue. He didn't know exactly what her plan was, but he knew that Peaches was secretly working some diabolical scheme to discredit Sara Sue. When he discovered that, and when he had seen Peaches leave the checking room, young Worthington had hastened out in a sort of daze.

He really didn't give any thought to where he was going. Wrapped in a sense of great alarm he just started running, kid like. In emergency a child runs almost anywhere, just runs.

He knew that he must do something, find somebody. He surveyed the dancers for a brief moment, then plunged on toward the stairway, not even waiting for the elevator. The University club is only one floor up from the street, anyway. In a few seconds he was on the sidewalk, but was confused. He had some vague idea of going for police. Police. Everybody thinks automatically of police, in moments of danger.

"Ahnn-n-h!" he suddenly groaned, though.

He had remembered his uniform! His monkey suit. His "buttons"—the bell hop suit in which sophomores had dressed him. Quite involuntarily he let embarrassment at that control him, so that he blushingly darted back up the stairs to the clubroom again. Some recess of his mind had reminded him that he was now a married man, who could not be seen on the street in bell hop uniform! His mind, and his body seemed to be whirling around in circles, not very logically. But Mister Worthington Gurley, married man, still was very young.

A swarm of dancers engulfed him then, so that he was swept dazedly into the gaiety. He elbowed his way through to a window on the opposite side. Peering down, he still saw no policeman. By this time he wasn't sure that he wanted a policeman, anyway. In fact, he didn't know what he wanted. His legs were impatient. He started running again. Somewhere. Anywhere. A scared kid, with a tremendous secret. Very confused.

"Button, slime!" some upperclassman called, but he paid no attention.

His wife Marcia saw him as she danced by. "Worthington — darling!" she called out. She sensed that he was in trouble. But he couldn't talk to Marcia now! He couldn't spoil her evening. He waved hastily to her, and darted away, pushing through the dancers again rather than going around. Several couples bumped into him, but he didn't notice. He could think of nothing but a diamond bracelet in Sara Sue's coat, and of the terrible look in Peaches' face.

* * *

Unconsciously, now, he pushed himself toward the men's lounge.

This traditional sanctum of privacy was around an L in the larger hall. An electric sign announced it. First there was a large luxurious smoking-loafing room. Then two or three smaller and semi-private rooms, where a man could snatch a 10-minute rest if need be, sprawled on a divan. Beyond this was the larger white-tiled washroom, with several rather large private compartments inside. The University club was indeed an elaborately outfitted place.

Worthington noted that even the front lounge was empty — hilarity had been too great outside for men to miss any of the fun by loafing—but he moved on past the smaller lounges into the tiled room. There—for want of something, anything, to calm his nerves—he paused at a fountain and swigged a long drink of ice water. This big room seemed deserted, too.

He leaned back against the white wall to think.

Should he telephone police? Or should he first go accost Peaches and tell her what he had discovered, threatening to expose her if she ever tried anything else sneaking on Sara Sue? Or should he go to Sara Sue and tell her? Or maybe to Bob Towne. Or T. J. Sanders. Sara Sue's escore. Gosh!

He drank some more ice water. He noted then that his heart was pounding.

During the few seconds he had stood there, a clicking noise had been coming from somewhere. An irregular click and slide, faint but noticeable. Except for the music now muted by doors and distance, this was the only sound in the big white washroom.

Click.

In a moment he knew it came from one of the smaller private rooms.

* * *

Unthinking, still confused and agitated by his other discovery, he moved to the private room door and opened it. He gazed down at a man.

The man, dressed in tuxedo, was kneeling on the white tile floor alone. Alone, too, he was shaking dice, and throwing them, as if in solitaire, or in practice. Click-click, slide. Click. And—a quart of whiskey, unmistakable in color and odor, stood on the floor nearby, open but apparently still full. The cork was near. A lone man, throwing dice, preparing to get drunk.

His motions stopped the second after Worthington opened the door, and he looked up, quizzically, owl-eyed, his expression strained. Worthington's jaw dropped.

"Why, D-D-Dr. Holgate?" the lad exclaimed. "You — you — gos-s-sh!"

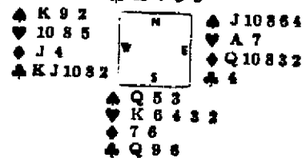
"The Authority on Authorities"

SEEK ANOTHER BID

When your only stopper in some suit happens to be an ace plus a guard or two, try to avoid bidding no trump if you can. Seek some other bid.

This is not because your ace is not a secure stopper, but that it is much more valuable in the dummy if your partner holds some secondary or tertiary honor in the suit. Then your side may have the suit doubly stopped, whereas you might have only one stop if the lead comes up to the ace.

Bidding some suit at such a time may result in your partner calling no trump and making the game, whereas you would have been set.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North came to grief on this deal because after his opening diamond and South's heart, he thought his black aces were good stoppers for the other suits. He went to 2-No trump and South took it to game. Even if South had made his correct second bid of 3-Hearts, the side would not have made a game, for North would have raised that to 4-Hearts, at which game is impossible against perfect defense.

East led the spade J against North's 3-No trump, setting up the suit with celerity and dispatch. When he shortly won a trick with his heart A, he ran the setting tricks.

Suppose after North's 1-Diamond and South's 1-Heart, North had chosen to bid 2-Clubs. That would have given South one chance to call No trump. But if he rebid at 2-Hearts, North could have called 3-Hearts, at which South could safely have shown his doubtful stoppers in the black suits, with 3-No trump, confident that a good man in the North would take this out to 4-Hearts unless holding something in the black suits.

North would have left it at 3-No trump, and the game would have been sure against a lead of either of the unbid suits, which would have been doubly stopped with South declarer.

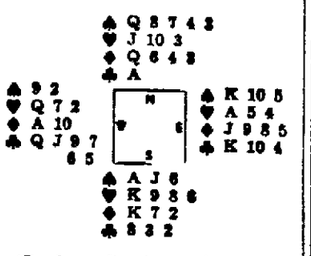
Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

For a little variety bake your pies in square or rectangular-shaped pans. Often they are easier to cut into equal portions from such a shape.

Prunes lend themselves to almost any form of bread pudding. For this purpose it is well to soak them until the stones can be taken out easily, and then chop them.

Cleveland West Comes To Tyger Lair Tonight

Butler Streak Snapped By Ontario High

It Fits Him

Conn Defeats Fred Apostoli

Scores Unanimous Decision In Garden Debut.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Billy Conn, a 21-year-old Irisher from Pittsburgh and a fine piece of fighting machinery, today had vaulted into the forefront of the nation's fistic prospects.

Making his first appearance in Madison Square Garden, the tall boy scored a unanimous decision over Fred Apostoli, who is recognized by the New York and California commissions as middleweight champion, before 11,000 fans last night.

The result did nothing toward clearing up the muddled middleweight situation, for Conn probably weighed 170 pounds when he entered the ring, compared to Apostoli's legitimate 160. But it established Conn as a genuinely fine fighter, a man to be reckoned with in heavyweight circles within another year.

The pair put up a brutal fight, and the result was in doubt right up to the final round on the Associated Press score card. In the end Conn's greater height and reach and a deadly left hook that Apostoli never managed to avoid swung the balance.

They went at it like longshoremen for all of the 10 rounds, with the sturdy Apostoli boring in and swinging and his cool opponent blazing back with his left. There were no knockdowns.

Apostoli carried the fight from the bell. Tearing into the Pittsburgh boy, he rocked Conn back against the ropes and that was when the crowd discovered it was going to like the kid. The harder he got hit the harder Conn fought back.

Conn is taking on weight steadily. He said that within six months he might scale 180.

Rockets Sparkle Even In Defeat

In defeat, after nine consecutive triumphs, the University of Toledo Rockets still were dazzling

Ball State, the Muncie, Ind., cage quintet, succeeded by the proverbial hair's breath last night in stopping the sensational Ohio contingent, 42 to 41.

Ball, playing the home court, turned the trick by freezing the ball in the final minutes of play—refuge of the desperate.

Ball held a 42 to 30 lead with three minutes to go. Then Chuck Chuckovits and his cohorts cut loose a basket barrage that netted 11 points in two minutes. Obviously bewildered, the Indianans clung to the sphere and awaited the gun.

Chuckovits turned in his customary performance, caging seven field goals and 10 free throws for 24 points.

LOUDONVILLE SUFFERS FIRST LOSS OF SEASON

RITTMAN — Loudonville high ran into its initial setback in six games here last night by bowing to the undefeated Rittman high quintet by a 20 to 14 count in a Central Buckeye league tilt.

It was Rittman's sixth victory in a row. Ramsier was high point man for the evening with nine points, and Nouse led the Red Birds with six.

Murphy Cagers Ready

Mansfield High Quint Hopes To Balance Record Book With Victory.

PROBABLE LINEUPS

Scott	F	Sardelli
Dugger	F	E. Flash
Shelley	C	Patton
Lyons	G	Kosch
Herpich	G	W. Flash

VICTORIOUS in two out of five games, Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers of Mansfield high school will attempt to balance their record book tonight when they engage Cleveland West on the home planks.

The Tygers are particularly anxious to place this game on the win side of the ledger as it was West which handed them their first defeat of the season.

Lose In Overtime.

West administered the whipping in an overtime period to climax a second half rally that erased a seven-point deficit at the intermission. The Cleveland club is strong in every department, but whether it will be as dangerous on the larger Mansfield court remains to be seen.

The smallness of the West floor bewildered the Tygers in the game at Cleveland, Murphy believes, but he does not underestimate the visitors.

Cleveland has one of the greatest performers that the Tygers have faced this season in Pete Kosch, who scored 16 points to enable West to overtake Mansfield by a 38 to 37 count in their first meeting.

The Tygers have worked hard this week to be at their peak for this meeting. In addition to daily fundamental drills, the home team has played several practice games.

Murphy believes that they are ready to produce the type of basketball that has been expected of them all season. One of the faults of the team to date has been its failure to keep up a pace. The team has been guilty of slowing down in the fourth period.

The Tyger tactician indicated that this fault might be remedied with more substitutions The reserve strength needs bolstering before he can do this successfully, he believes.

Simpson In Prelim.

A preliminary game between the Tyger reserves and Simpson Junior high cagers will open tonight's program at 7 p. m., with a game between the Bushnell and West Fifth grade school teams meeting at the half.

Bowman, undefeated in the grade school league, will meet Hedges during the rest period of the varsity game.

Traveling League Matches Head Card

Headlining this week-end's bowling schedule at the Meder alleys will be N. C. O. Traveling league matches The Liederkranz club meets Willard at 7:30 p. m. tonight and engages Lorain at 4 p. m. The Moose team, Mansfield's other representative in the league, meets Lorain at 2 p. m. Sunday.

In other matches on the Meder lanes tonight, Moose No. 2 meets Akron No 2 at 7.30, and the Mansfield and Sandusky O. P. S. club meets at the same time. The Moose No 1 team is scheduled at Akron tonight. The Mansfield Printers and Yuncker Sports will collide at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Crestline Upsets Tiffin Calvert Five

TIFFIN—Crestline high pulled a surprise in the League of Six Nations here last night by stopping a favored Tiffin Calvert quintet, 40 to 34.

Tiffin remained in the thick of the contest in the opening half, knotting the score on three occasions, but Crestline, with Harrison and Emmer pacing the attack, pulled away to a seven-point lead in the third quarter.

Harrison led in individual scoring with 16 points, with Grieselding of Tiffin, pressing him with 15.

Lemunyon's 665 High As No. 2 Sets Record

Leads Moose Team to 2802 Total In Home Loop; Iron Finishers Pace Ohio Brass League.

HAROLD LEMUNYON'S big black mineralite socked 665 pins to the pits in the Moose Home league at the Meder alleys last night to establish the individual pace.

Bowling with the No. 2 team, Lemunyon rolled out tilts of 235, 225 and 205 as he led his club to a record 2802 total, compiled from games of 944, 934 and 924. No. 2, incidentally, took three games from No. 4.

Next high on the No. 2 team was Ray Shively, who blasted out a 613. Don Renner, who opened with a 235, shot a 594.

No. 1 took three games from No. 5, with Farrell Hipp leading the way with a 612. Brig Young was high for the losers with a 618, finishing with a 234.

In the other matches, No.6, led by Eddie Meder's 604, won two games from No. 3.

Whippets Lose at Bucyrus

BUCYRUS—Shelby high ran into a snag in its quest for title honors in the North Central Ohio conference here last night by bowing to the Bucyrus Redmen, 27 to 18.

The Redmen rubbed out a 6 to 1 Shelby lead in the opening frame to go ahead, 16 to 12, at the half. That advantage piled up by Bucyrus proved to be too much for the Whippets to whittle down, and the winners finished the third quarter leading, 22 to 16 Bucyrus held Shelby to two points in the final period.

Jim Osborn slipped in seven points to lead in the scoring column. Oster added six to the Shelby cause.

Regulars on Bench As Galion Loses.

GALION—With four of the regulars watching the game from the sidelines, the Galion high Orangemen dropped a 34 to 25 decision to Marion Harding in a North Central Ohio conference melee here last night.

Coach John Burnison benched three of the varsity players in a matter of discipline, while the fourth, Bryon Beck, starting center, was out due to an ankle injury.

The Orangemen started strong but the absence of the mainstays was evident throughout. Galion grabbed a 5-2 lead in the initial period, but Marion rallied to bounce ahead by a 14 to 13 count at halftime.

Ashland Stops Mt. Vernon, 40-36.

ASHLAND—Ashland high's North Central Ohio basketball conference representatives handed the Mt. Vernon high Yellow Jackets a 40 to 36 setback here last night in a thrilling conference contest.

Ashland vaulted into the lead in the third period, but had to throttle numerous Mt. Vernon scoring threats to gain the decision in a game that saw the score knotted six times and the lead change hands on 10 other occasions.

The Jackets spurted to jump into a 9 to 7 advantage in the opening frame and were leading, 23 to 22, at the half. Ashland forged into a 37 to 34 lead at the end of the third quarter, and outscored the invaders, 3 to 2, to win.

Say, Who Is This Guy Vines?

Any doubt about J. Donald Budge being the king of the world tennis players, both amateur and professional, was dispelled by early results of the current Budge pro tour. Budge has been shellacking Ellsworth Vines, his touring partner, in eastern appearances, scenes from which are shown.

Shiloh, Union to Renew Cage Rivalry Tonight

All of the Richland county league quintets will be idle tonight except Shiloh and Union, which tangle on the latter team's court.

Ashland and Mt. Vernon of the N. C. O. conference are also in action, with the A's in Sandusky for a 4 p. m. game. The Sandusky game was scheduled at this early hour to permit the use of the gym for another affair. Mt. Vernon is host to Columbus West.

SOHIOANS SHARE GYM WITH DONKEYS TONIGHT

The Ontario Sohioans will meet the Ashland Ramblers in the headline attraction on a sports card to feature two donkey games at Ontario high tonight.

The two donkey games—and they say the players have a lot of trouble combining basketball and "bronco busting"—will pit the faculty against the Misfits and George Bogantz' team against Harold Marshall's club.

Sexton Keeps Grapple Title

Disposes of Welch in Straight Falls at Armory.

Frank Sexton of Sedalia, who tips the scales at 230 pounds, successfully defended his Ohio heavyweight wrestling title by throwing Cleve Welch of Cleveland in straight falls at the Armory last night.

The aggressive Welch offered Sexton plenty of trouble, but the Ohio king was the master of every situation.

Sexton, who held a 20-pound weight advantage, took the first fall in 18 minutes with an arm scissors. The battle started out rough, with Referee Clarence Miller being forced to warn both grapplers continually against slugging.

Welch took command of the match on their return to the mat for the second fall. He held a body scissors on the giant Sedalia for 20 minutes. After breaking the hold, Sexton executed the "giant swing," ending it with body slams to win the fall in 27 minutes.

Sterling Davis, reformed Texas roughman, took the measure of Walter Stratton of Letonia in the semi-final match. Stratton won the first fall with an arm stretch in 18 minutes. Davis evened the match in two minutes with what is called the "kangaroo kick" and body slams and employed the same tricks to gain the third fall and match in 18 minutes.

Bombers Gain Early Lead to Win, 18-16

The lead acquired in the first half enabled the Bombers to trim the Bulldogs, 18 to 16, in a Senior A Colored league game at the Friendly House last night. The Bombers, who held a 16 to 6 lead at the half, were held to two points in the third and fourth periods. Ray led the winners with 12 points.

Woodbury, who tallied 14 points, paced the Tigers to a 21 to 15 victory over the Wildcats.

Yuncker Sports' 11-Game Winning Streak At Stake In City Cage League Monday Night

THE task of protecting a brilliant 11-game winning streak in the City Class A basketball league rests on the shoulders of the touted Yuncker Sport cagers at Senior high Monday night.

Manager Jimmy Breres' high-scoring combine, which swept through the 1937-38 schedule without a setback to annex the championship and has already registered two victories this year, faces another tough test when it tackles the dangerous Westinghouse Electric outfit in the feature game at 8:30.

Opening Monday evening's program will be a meeting between Earl Herrick's Hi-Speeds and the Elks Lodge, in which the Hi-Speeds will endeavor to chalk up their initial triumph of the season.

Not only will the Yuncker club be fighting to mark up its 12th win, but will also be after the opening round title.

The Sports are assured of at least a share of the first round crown, but Breres' towering sharpshooters hope to see to it that they win the title outright.

With such stars as Johnny Reese, Lexington high coach, Al Stickler and Freddie Lewis, erstwhile Mansfield high aces, and Harold Hayfer, City league veteran, in the lineup, the Sports will enter the melee as favorites, but whether they can stop the fast-improving Westies remains to be seen.

Pilot George Percy has Harry Ross available for the tussle and his addition to the lineup is expected to aid the Electrics' cause. The Yuncker club must throttle Bob Shade, who in his last appearance tallied 21 points to set a new season individual scoring record.

And there is a chance of three teams sharing the opening round crown. If the Electrics and Elks come through with wins they will be tied with the Sports for the title.

Herrick expects his club to be at full strength for the first time this season. In the two games so far two of his mainstays have been absent.

Handed 23-22 Defeat By Lowly Warriors

Henry Hager Gives Defending Champions Upset Victory With Long Shot In Overtime.

By CHARLES MARTIN

COACH ORVILLE KIBLER'S Ontario high quintet was one of the three clubs tied for last place in the Richland county league race when it invaded the Butler high hardwood last night and its chances of gaining any ground in the standings were slim, to say the least.

But when the smoke cleared away, the Warriors had handed the erstwhile undefeated Butler Bulldogs a stunning 23 to 22 defeat in a "suicide" overtime period before a capacity crowd. It was the first setback in eight games for Coach Bob Burgett's lads and left them in second place.

The Butler defeat enabled the Madison Rams, who were idle last night, to jump into first place in the league race.

Henry Hager, playing his first year as a regular, collected only three goals last night, but one of them he made from the center of the court in the overtime period to rub out Butler's 22 to 21 lead with 15 seconds to go.

Kenny Miller had spotted the Bulldogs to the 22-21 advantage earlier in the "sudden death" period, on a foul conversion, and that point looked good until Hager connected.

Ontario, which had registered only one league victory in three starts this season, pulled a surprise in the opening half of the tilt by piling up an overwhelming lead.

Butler suddenly came to life after the intermission, and although it limited the defending champions to a basket in the third and fourth stanzas, the best it could do was to knot the score at 21-all in the regulation time.

Kibler's youngsters grabbed a 13 to 1 lead in the opening period, led 17 to 8 at halftime, and went into the final chapter sporting a 19 to 14 lead.

Miller, Butler's midget forward, slipped in 10 points to take individual honors, while Mat Hager paced Ontario with seven.

The Ontario reserves made a clean sweep for the evening by defeating the Butler seconds, 16 to 10, in the prelim.

Crawford Scores 25 Points In Lucas Win.

LANKY Bob Crawford sparked a spectacular second-half rally that enabled the Lucas high basketeers to top a determined Lexington high quintet, 38 to 33, on the Minutemen's court last night in a nip-and-tuck Richland county league tussle.

It was Lucas' second league triumph and the third setback for Coach John Reese's charges.

Crawford, one of the league's leading scorers last season, had little trouble in locating the basket and slipped in 12 goals and a free throw for 25 points, more than half of his team's total.

Lexington, concentrating its defense on Tom Greulich, the league's 1937-38 individual scoring champion, fought the invaders on even terms in the opening period and managed to obtain a slim lead at the intermission.

But Crawford began dumping baskets in from all points and Lucas soon jumped into a lead they held to the final gun.

The opening stanza ended at 10-all, and then Lexington went ahead, 21 to 17, at halftime. Lucas came back to gain a 27 to 26 advantage going into the final chapter.

Dick Roberts tipped in 15 points to pace the Minutemen and follow Crawford in the battle for individual scoring honors. Greulich collected seven for Lucas.

The Lucas seconds defeated the Lexington reserves, by a 18 to 14 score in the preliminary attraction.

Plymouth Keeps Slate Unmarred.

TO PLYMOUTH HIGH goes the honor of having the only undefeated basketball club in Richland county today.

Plymouth gained the distinction last night by edging a fighting Shiloh high outfit, 26 to 25, in a hard-fought Twin-Valley league tilt at Shiloh, while the heretofore unbeaten Butler Bulldogs fell by the wayside by dropping an overtime affair to Ontario.

Coach Donald Dunham's courtiers were forced to stage a thrilling second-half rally before they subdued their dangerous opponents. It was Plymouth's seventh straight win.

For two periods, the Drummer Boys gave the touted Plymouth combine a scare, but with LeRoy Ellison, towering center, leading the way, the Pilgrims soon overtook Shiloh in the third and went on to win.

Shiloh, battling desperately to dump its vaunted rivals, piled up a 7 to 4 advantage in the opening stanza and added to it to hold a 14 to 10 lead at the intermission.

The Drummer lads retained the lead until midway in the third chapter and then Plymouth began clicking. At the end of the quarter the Pilgrims were leading by a slim 21 to 20 margin. Both teams tipped in five points in the final frame.

Ellison set the individual tempo with nine points, while Reynolds of Shiloh trailed with eight.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

RALPH A. SCHALLER, a science teacher at Bowling Green high school, conducts a survey during the hunting season among his pupils and each year about 140 families, 15 per cent of them rural, are included in the survey.

The survey was started in 1932, the year of the heavy snow when many birds were caught by hand, and the figures of that year were 264 pheasants killed, 85 Hunkies and 208 rabbits. The next year the figures were 189 pheasants, 38 Hunkies and 246 rabbits. The year 1934 saw 251 pheasants, 41 Hunkies and 159 rabbits killed, and in 1935 there were 374 pheasants reported by these 140 families, 28 Hunkies and 211 rabbits.

The pheasant kill continued to grow and in 1936 the report showed 411 pheasants, 30 Hunkies and 202 rabbits, while 1937 showed a big jump in the ringnecks, 649 reported killed along with 14 Hunkies and 342 rabbits.

A record number of pheasants were turned in this recent season, Schaller's survey showing 720 pheasants being killed, only 28 Hunkies and 533 rabbits. This represented the report from 142 families with 129 having hunting licenses and 27 hunting on their own farms where a license was not required.

* * *

Rabbit hunting from all reports, was the best it has been in several years. The state organization has been doing some heavy stocking the last year or two and this, combined with an excellent breeding season this spring, resulted in large numbers of the cottontails in areas in which they formerly were quite scarce. Very few hunters returned this year without at least one rabbit, and the last year or two the rabbit in many sections was virtually non-existent.

Now is a good time to go over your fishing tackle and make needed repairs and replacements. Yuncker's can supply rod tips, ferrules, guides, etc., as well as parts for practically any reel.

A good flashlight comes in handy most any time, so keep one in the car. It may be a lifesaver, on occasion. You'll find a good assortment at Yuncker's, from the flashlight for ordinary uses, to the powerful, long range lights for distance. They're quite inexpensive, too.

"Newsboys' Home."

THE suave and polished Edmund Lowe, who has been seen all too infrequently on the screen the last couple of years, has an important role in "Newsboys' Home," in which young Jackie Cooper is starred. The picture will have its Mansfield opening at the Madison theater at a midnight show tonight. Cooper plays a newsboy, Wendy Barrie the publisher of a newspaper and Lowe a reporter. The climax of the action comes in a street fight in which a murder mystery is solved.

"Sweethearts."

Described as the best musical picture they have made since "Naughty Marietta," "Sweethearts" with Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald is being hailed as one of the artistic and box office hits of the season. It is a Victor Herbert operetta, brought up to date and providing a modern story for these two artists who have always appeared in period pictures. Smart, amusing dialogue has been provided by Dorothy Parker and her husband, Alan Campbell. The supporting cast is unusually attractive — Mischa Auer, Herman Bing, Florence Rice, Ray Bolger and the waggish Frank Morgan. The Ohio theater shows the picture for a week, starting today.

"Spawn of the North."

To the list of great sea pictures has been added this season the Paramount production, "Spawn of The North," a stirring tale of Yukon waters by a native writer, Barrett Willoughby. Top bracket players, George Raft, Henry Fonda and Dorothy Lamour, are supported by such players as John Barrymore, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman and Louise Platt. The friendship of two lifelong friends is threatened when they find themselves on opposite sides in a fishing and canning feud. The picture, with "Blockheads," a Laurel-Hardy comedy, opens at the Ritz Sunday.

"Women Men Marry."

Two reporters assigned to expose a crooked mystic cult provides the action for "Women Men Marry," booked for the Majestic tomorrow. And of course there is romance as the reporters are attractive George Murphy and pretty Josephine Hutchinson. Cliff Edwards, the former "Ukulele Ike," plays a news photographer and provides the comedy. The 1938 edition of "Big Broadcast" with W. C. Fields, Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour and dozens of film and radio stars is also on the program.

'You Can't Take It With You.'

One of the most popular pictures of the past year, made from one of the great stage successes of the past two years, is the Park attraction for the first half of the week. "You Can't Take It With You," directed by Frank Capra and with a gilt-edge cast which includes Lionel Barrymore as Grandpa Vanderhoff; James Stewart, Jean Arthur, Edward Arnold, Mischa Auer and a number of others. The play won the Pulitzer prize last year as the best American play.

Smiling for the first time in months, 400 child refugees in Shanghai were transferred to Chekiang province where they are beginning life anew.

TAXES REFLECT HOLIDAY SPURT

Sales Levy Receipts for Week Ending Dec. 24 Set Record.

Sales tax receipts in Richland county jumped to $15,949 for the week ending Dec. 24, the best collection for any week in 1938, figures released by State Treasurer Clarence Knisley showed today.

Reflecting increased holiday business in the period preceding Christmas, sales tax collections for the entire state during the third week in December amounted to $1,223,218, or an increase of $150,000 over figures for the same week in 1937.

Sales tax income for the entire year in Richland county, however, was approximately one-third below collections in 1937, due to the marked drop in retail business in the summer and early fall.

LEAVES JAIL

Woman Sentenced In Relief Case Serves Out 10-Day Term.

Mrs. Edith Jacobs, 29, of 86 East Fourth street, was released from the county jail yesterday after serving a 10-day sentence for misrepresentation in her application for relief.

Mrs. Jacobs was committed to jail Dec. 28 after she was found guilty of the charge in municipal court.

PROTECTS BUTTERFLIES

PACIFIC GROVE, Cal.—(U.P.)—The vast hordes of monarch butterflies, which for the past 60 years have made an annual flight of 1,000 miles from the Canadian Rockies to winter here, now are protected by law. A new city ordinance imposes a fine of $500 or six months imprisonment for anyone who molests or disturbs them. No exception is made for the scientists who come every year to study them.

SOCIETIES CONDUCT JANUARY MEETINGS

Mrs. J. C. Stout, Mrs. Ruth Orcutt Present Lessons Before Members of Central M. E. Church Groups.

THE regular monthly meetings of the Home and Foreign Missionary societies and the Ladies Aid society of the Central Methodist Episcopal church were held yesterday at 11 a. m. Mrs. Keith Frary presided during the home society business, and Rev. Paul Hollingshead, pastor of the church, gave the devotions.

Mrs. J. C. Stout read "City Skylines" from the society's textbook, and luncheon followed. Mrs. Frank Bair and her committee served the meal.

In the afternoon Mrs. E. C. Jenkins took charge of the foreign meeting, and Mrs. Frank Ramsey presented the worship. The lesson from the study book was "The Untouchables of India" and was read by Mrs. Ruth Orcutt. Mrs. L. J. Bonar and Mrs. Stout presented a vocal duet.

Following the two missionary sessions, the aid assembled for routine business under Mrs. C. N. Shultz. The next regular session of the three societies will be held Feb. 2 at the church.

GIVES SHOWER.

Another post-nuptial party was given last night for Mrs. Freeman Egner, Norwalk, formerly Miss Barbara Stoll by Mrs. Philip Reitter, Bellville, at 52 Chestnut avenue. Games were played and the prizes which were won by Miss Elizabeth Weidel and Miss Betty DeKrell, were given to the bride. There was a luncheon served to 20 guests by the hostess, who had decorations of red and green for the affair. Mrs. Charles Piatt will entertain Jan. 13.

SOCIETY

Election Held At Sorority Meeting Thursday Night

When members of the Gamma chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority met yesterday evening in the club rooms, they elected Miss Marianne Springer to serve as president of the organization for the coming year. Miss Betty Hammel is the newly elected vice-president with Miss Susan Anderson, secretary, and Miss Wileen Treisch, treasurer. Last evening's meeting was conducted by the retiring president, Miss Eileen Logan.

The group played bridge after the business session, and Mrs. Joseph Kemp has invited the members to her home on Stewart avenue for the meeting next Thursday. On Jan. 19, Delta chapter of the sorority will entertain the Mansfield and Ashland chapters of this organization with a party at the Towne House.

STOCK MARKET DIPS ON HEELS OF LATE SALES

Utilities, Aircrafts Given Support But Also Lose In Closing Hours.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Late selling of pivotal industrials and rail unsettled the stock market today and leading issues dropped fractions to a point or so, with a few losing 2 to 3.

Utilities and aircrafts received buying support throughout, but the majority of these gave ground at the close.

Dealings were relatively slow until the final few minutes when the pace quickened. Transfers were around 600,000 shares.

Among items receiving the attention of market analysts were:

The Federal Reserve Board reported department store sales throughout the nation in the last week of 1938 were 2 per cent above the volume in the corresponding period of 1937.

Trade summaries disclosed leading chain stores and mail order houses during December enjoyed the best sales for any month since September, 1937, with some important organizations achieving the largest distribution in their histories.

Observers in the construction field predicted a substantial expansion of profit during the first half of 1939 for the building material and home furnishing industries.

3 Ashlanders and Richland Youth Held to Grand Jury On Larceny Charges.

Arraigned in municipal court this morning, three Ashland men and a youth from near Mansfield pleaded guilty to grand larceny charges involving the theft of scrap iron from the Mansfield Shale Products company plant in Weller township, and were bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond each.

Unable to provide bond, they were returned to the county jail. The prisoners are Marvin Kane, 31; his brother, Dewey Kane, 40, and Paul Stutz, 24, all of Ashland, and Walter S. Haun, 19, Garden Acres, near Mansfield.

The group yesterday confessed the thefts to Prosecutor G. W. Marriott after they had walked into a trap at the shale plant northeast of the city.

Owners of the plant and Sheriff E. P. Long and Deputy C. C. Gongwer captured the men Thursday night as they rolled large wheels, gears and pulleys from a storage shed near the shale plant, planning to haul the equipment away later in their car.

F. J. Wehinger and A. H. Wehinger, the owners, were on the look-out for thieves and fired a shotgun at the quartet as they fled from the scene. One of the men stopped and was captured. Sheriff Long and Deputy Gongwer apprehended the others as they attempted to start their automobile parked a short distance away.

The loot, most of which was recovered, was valued at more than $100, Sheriff Long said.

MOONEY LEAVES SAN QUENTIN

the worldwide fight in his behalf on grounds he was "framed" by perjured testimony, will meet him in Sacramento.

"Good-bye Tom," shouted convicts.

"So long, fellows!" Mooney called back.

It was expected Mooney would be freed at Sacramento before 3 p. m. (Mansfield time). Labor organizations throughout the world were ready with joyous demonstrations. A brief hearing in the governor's chambers seemed the only remaining formality.

The pardon was a virtual certainty. It had no organized opposition. Governor Olson had promised in campaign speeches he would free Mooney if elected. He became the first Democratic governor in 44 years.

Convinced of Innocence.

The governor's hearing was not expected to last more than an hour. Gov. Olson was convinced of Mooney's innocence and, when a member of the state senate, had campaigned for his freedom.

The bomb, planted in a suitcase at the corner of San Francisco's Steuart and Market streets in advance of the patriotic parade July 22, 1916, killed 10 and wounded 40 persons, maiming some for life. It was planted by someone who opposed United States preparations for entering the World war. But nearly all the evidence against Mooney had been repudiated since, and his lawyers and supporters have insisted since the days of his trial that he was framed by "capitalistic persecutors" for his liberalism and because of his labor agitation.

Mooney has protested his innocence steadfastly and has repeatedly refused to accept paroles. He demanded a pardon and complete vindication. He had been originally sentenced to death and his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. W. D. Stephens Nov. 28, 1918, at the request of President Wilson, while the nation was at war.

Rides With Relatives.

A highway patrol car was leading the procession here from the prison. Technically, Mooney was still a prisoner but he rode happily with his wife, his brother, John, and his sister, Anna Mooney who have worked for years for this day.

Gov. Olson was opening the proceedings with a brief statement. Then George T. Davis, Mooney's attorney, was to make the application for pardon. Olson had invited anyone who opposed a pardon to be present.

If there are none to protest, Gov. Olson presumably will sign the pardon at once.

Mooney has spent his last day in prison going from cell to cell bidding goodbye to those who had been his companions.

ological difficulties which have been experienced in the areation units for the past year are now operating at "near perfect" efficiency.

He explained that the by-passing of partially treated sewage had been caused at times when the treatment process had become "upset" by bacteriological conditions.

Although power costs at the plant showed a 100 per cent increase over a year ago, sewage gas production, which Turner has recommended be used to generate power and cut operating costs, showed an increase of 200,000 cubic feet during December.

The report revealed that 1,668,730 cubic feet were produced during December as compared with 1,448,610 cubic feet in November, a 100 per cent increase over the production in December, 1937.

Turner said the cost of the electricity that could have been generated from the gas would have amounted to $510, which would have reduced the monthly power bill of $794 to $284.

House New Dealers Back Move to Stifle Dies Inquiry

FOES ACT TO REJECT PROBE FUND APPEALS

Get Behind Roosevelt Order For Investigations By Justice Department.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A movement to stifle the Dies house un-American activities committee by ignoring the whole question of Communist, Nazi and Fascist activities in the department of justice was launched among house members today.

The announcement by President Roosevelt that Attorney-General Murphy will investigate alleged violations of criminal law cited by the Dies committee was seized upon by foes of the committee as an argument for their proposal.

First house Democratic leader to announce preference for a department of justice investigation was Rep. Pat Boland, party whip. Then the two Speaker Bankhead and Rep. Rayburn, of Texas, majority leader, were declared to oppose Democratic co-operation in continuation of the Dies committee for two years.

Gas Argument Bolstered.

While two of the committee welcomed the department of justice investigation, Dies and Rep. Starnes (D) of Alabama, committee members said that it strengthened the position of the committee in asking $25,000 and authority to prolong its inquiry. The committee is adjourned, at least temporarily, as its funds are completely exhausted.

Whether the department of justice investigation will be limited to the evidence submitted by the Dies committee, or whether it will cover a broad field, may affect the result of the house fight.

"I have thought for sometime that the department of justice could do a more effective job of investigating un-American activities," said Democratic whip Boland. "I believe that it is the prerogative of the department. I think there would be a certain amount of duplication between a justice department and a committee inquiry.

"Then, too the Dies committee has investigated enough to recommend legislation. If legislation is necessary to stop these un-American activities, it should be brought in."

Rep. Lemke (R) of North Dakota member of the Dies committee who frequently has criticized its methods, welcomed the department of justice inquiry. A thorough investigation by the department, he said, would make unnecessary continuation of the committee Lempke did, however, sign the report recommending continuation.

Administration leaders in the house deny that they have had any indications that the White House is taking sides in the controversy.

COSTS ROAD JOB

Duffy's Ruling Blocks $24,000 Project In County.

A ruling by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy halting the awarding of $40,000 in state highway contracts today cost Richland county at least temporarily, a $24,000 road project in Worthington township.

As one of his last official acts, Duffy ruled that the contracts could not be let legally since the legislature has not appropriated any highway funds for 1939 to finance construction projects.

The opinion was handed down at the request of Highway Director Ivan R. Ault who asked what the status would be if the contracts were let illegally.

The Richland county project includes the construction of 2.12 miles of the Mansfield-Pleasant Hill Dam road at the southeastern corner of the county. The request for bids called for grading and excavation for the road and the use of gravel and stone in construction of the highway, Boyd Wierman, resident state highway engineer said.

Up and Down THE STREET

It is probably a good thing that several of the employes at the postoffice are cooling enthusiasts. Otherwise, the postal workers might have become puzzled as to what to do with a handful of farm-marketing sheets "mailed" this week. The sheets carrying scores of the previous night's bowling matches were intended for The News-Journal, but a boy entrusted with the job of delivering them placed them in the outgoing mail box at the postoffice. The "wrong-way" sheets, however, were promptly delivered to The News-Journal.

Roy Turner and Trenta Barney, the Mansfield boys who are trys in their field of entertainment and whose appearance at the Master Green Christmas tree was something of a sensation, are being featured this week at Radio City Music Hall in New York City. They went into the Music Hall, the world's largest theater, Thursday for a week, but may remain for a longer engagement. Last week they were featured at the State Lake theater in Chicago, with Jack Paar, movie star, and Helen Morgan, torch singer.

A poem of Helen Leonis Linham, Mansfield poet, which appeared in Good Housekeeping magazine some time ago, was used by the department of Welfare of Indiana for its Christmas greetings and prizes. The poem "Don't Pass Him By," was reproduced with the photograph of an old man. Big colored posters of the picture and the poem were exhibited in all county welfare agencies throughout the state during the holidays.

Recalling that he was a Mansfield News carrier from 1894 to 1895, he has no regret of the experience gained during that association, and is still interested in seeing "the old home paper."

WORKERS ELECT

WPA Employes Name Detrick Head of Organization.

The Richland County Workers Alliance elected Otto Detrick president of the organization last night and mapped plans for a mass meeting protesting the layoff of a number of WPA workers in the county in the past week.

Meeting at the organization headquarters, 15½ North Park street, the group elected Mrs. John Prather, vice president. John Sparks, recording secretary, Harold McGuire, financial secretary and treasurer and George Bowan and James Brady, sergeants-at-arms.

Detrick, Sparks, James Stephens and Charles Toma were chosen as delegates to the state convention of the Workers Alliance Jan. 14-16 in Columbus.

Sparks said a mass meeting of all interested members of labor organizations in the city would be called sometime next week to protest the dismissal of women WPA workers from county projects.

KENT BANDS TO GREET DAVEYS

Town To Put On Fireworks Display Too For Homecoming.

KENT (AP) — Fireworks and brass bands will welcome Martin L. Davey and his wife back to their hometown of Kent Monday.

A group of residents here, organized into the citizen's homecoming committee, today made final plans for an elaborate celebration in honor of the governor's return.

The city will blaze with a huge display of fireworks as the bands lead a procession of townspeople and the Daveys to the Kent Opera house where he will be the principle speaker. The opera house, unused for many years, is a fond memory to the governor for it was here that he made his first political speech 25 years ago when he campaigned for mayor.

IDIOT, 22, PLAYS WITH TRAIN BEFORE DEATH IN GAS CHAMBER

(By United Press)

CANON CITY, Colo.—Warden Roy Best clumped heavily along the steel floor corridor to the cell where a strapping young man was playing with an electric train, and, unlocking the door, said:

"Come along, Joe. It's time."

"It's time for me to go to heaven?" asked the young man, looking up brightly from his play.

"That's right."

"What are you going to do up there, Joe, raise chickens?" the warden asked.

"No," said the young man as he walked to his death. "I'm going to play a harp, just like Father Albert says."

The warden, Father Albert, the prison chaplain, and several guards took him on down to the execution chamber and strapped him in the chair.

While 50 witnesses watched through windows, cyanide pellets were dropped into the acid and the resultant gas rose around the helpless man in the chair and choked out his life.

Thus Colorado disposed of the moral problem of Joe Arridy, a 22-year-old idiot who escaped from the institution for the feeble minded and raped and killed Dorothy Drain, 15. Many persons had petitioned Gov. Teller Ammons that the state shouldn't execute him because he didn't even have the mentality to comprehend the nature of death. Ammons decided differently yesterday afternoon and the supreme court refused to reconsider its previous stand that, though mentally deficient, he could comprehend the difference between right and wrong.

SHORT OF GOAL

T. B. Health Seal Drive $500 Under Amount Needed.

The tuberculosis clinic fund, which is raised through the sale of Christmas health seals, is still about $500 short of the amount needed to carry on the free clinic work this year, George H. Smith, chairman of the Mansfield campaign, said today.

Smith added that $2,296 had been raised to date, but that approximately $1,000 worth of stamps were still outstanding and had neither been paid for or returned. The books for the fund were to have been closed Jan. 1, but because of the number of stamps outstanding, will be kept open until Feb. 1.

"It is still possible to reach the minimum amount necessary for the year's work if persons who owe for their stamps would pay for them," Smith said.

The tuberculosis clinic and preventive work done by the clinic is financed entirely by the seal sale.

EVATT, FINANCE DIRECTOR, SCANS FUND REQUESTS

O. S. U. Seeking Increase of $2,000,000; 'Economize to Byrne,' Bricker Orders.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Facing a gigantic paring task, William S. Evatt, who becomes the state finance director next Monday, today studied requests of state departments and institutions for increased operating funds for the next two years.

A huge increase in the budget of Ohio State university is a startling example of the job waiting for Evatt when he succeeds Finance Director M. Ray Allison.

Estimates received from other departments and universities will have Evatt working overtime to follow the economy program demanded by Gov.-Elect John W. Bricker.

Budgets requests filed to date reveal a desire to spend more money, especially for building and maintenance purposes.

Back New Taxes.

Bricker has been conferring with Evatt on the biennium budget with a view toward slicing it to the bone. Such a move was seen as the only deterrent to the setting up of new taxes or increasing present levies.

Political observers are agreed that a substantial tax increase or new taxes would be political suicide for the Ohio Republican party at this stage. Evatt's ability to solve the financial problems appears the only way out.

The outstanding illustration thus far of what the new finance director is up against is the budget request of Ohio State.

The university is asking $8,819,850 for the next two years as compared with the 1937-38 request for $6,624,342.

The new budget calls for $6,254,500 to be paid out in salaries in comparison with $5,314,342 in 1937-38. Reason for the salary increase, the budget points out, is the number of new positions to be created by departmental expansion and the opening of new university buildings.

The trustees estimate that $318,000 will be needed to take care of salaries for new employes during 1939-40.

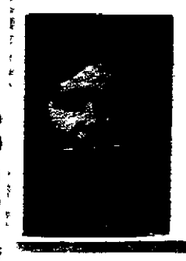
Not That It Matters



A Spider That Stopped a Train Starts a Train of Thought on Other Things

—By JANE WILLIAMS

FROM Boone, Ia., comes an interesting story this week of how a spider halted and delayed three big railroad trains. The spider crawled through a tiny crack in a glass container on a train control device, spinning a web between the contact points and thus putting the instrument out of commission and halting the trains.

If someone had seen the spider in or near the glass container and had suggested that it might halt the roaring iron engines that sometime would have been hailed as a lunatic or a crank.

So that members of the Dies committee investigating un-Americanism may take comfort when the charge of "cranks" is hurled at them.

* * *

THESE commissioners, made up of three Democrats, two New Dealers and two Republicans, have braved the scorn and wrath of the president and his followers in their efforts to ferret out the spiders in the national control box, and have been called cranks at various stages of their work.

Despite the fact that they have brought to light some startling and alarming facts, their unfinished work may have to be abandoned because officials, who lightly squander millions, will not appropriate an additional $150,000 to complete it.

One hundred times that amount was thrown away on an unfinished ditch.

THE Dies committee has openly accused the department of labor of being responsible for subversive espionage, propaganda and radical foreign activities to undermine our present form of government. It is a serious charge, and is being taken seriously by millions of thinking Americans.

If it isn't true, the department of labor heads should be the first to urge continuation of the investigation; and if it is true—then it's time to do something about the spiders in the control box.

In either event it is to be hoped that the new congress will grant the Dies committee additional funds to complete its work and in the meantime do something about the findings it has already made.

IT is little wonder that men are beginning to worry about their place in the world and are admitting that they can't hold their own in a business and professional world, BUT wait until they see the new issue of Ken magazine!

A copyrighted story predicts that by 1951 the first entirely fatherless child will be born. Common, every-day chemicals will replace father, according to the experiments of Dr. Stanley P. Reimann of the Lankenaur Hospital Research Institute of Philadelphia.

"Under such circumstances," he says, "it would be entirely up to the female of the species to decide whether she wants to preserve a few male specimens for historical, scientific, social or purely ornamental purposes."

Then there is always the matter of firing the furnace in the morning and going downstairs to see if it really is a burglar.

AS THE president asks for nine billion dollars, it is rather encouraging to have a senator pop up and suggest a $5 railroad fare from California to New York by way of "specialized" railroads.

Looks as if someone in Washington is still old fashioned enough to want us to live within our income.

ALTHOUGH the Dionne quintuplets are wards of the British crown, their king and queen will not go out of their way to visit the Beauteous Kids when the royal pair comes to Canada next summer.

And Dr. Allan Dafoe, the democratic old codger, who loves his small clients more than his king and queen, will not risk their well-being to take them to the city to see the visitors.

One of those cases where neither Mohamet nor the Mountain will budge an inch to see the other.

JIMMY ROOSEVELT took over his new $50,000 a year job Wednesday morning in New York City, as a member of the staff of Sam Goldwyn's picture producing company.

It has been decided by Mr. Goldwyn that it doesn't matter whether Jimmy has an office in New York or Hollywood—just so long as they can find him when pay day rolls around. And the president's remarkable son told news men that although his pay had started, he still doesn't know precisely what he is to do.

It's probably sour grapes on our part—but we'll bet Jimmy knows EXACTLY what he is to do to earn that $50,000.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Memo to Congress That Federal, State Workers Still Pay No Income Tax

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Well, pals, here we are again, like Johnny Appleseed, to remind the new congress and those who enjoy the priceless privilege of paying income taxes that there are, by the best available accounts, about four million persons on the state, county and municipal payrolls of the country who contribute no federal tax on their pay and almost another million cutrate citizens on the federal rolls who are exempt from the state income taxes, if any, of the states where they reside.

The first group consumes about six billion dollars a year of the tax money and includes, of course, many low-bracket employes who would be passed over by the collectors even if the federal tax did apply to the public servants of the subdivisions, but it includes also many judges, mayors, sheriffs, commissioners and teachers, governors, attorneys general and clerks of the court who draw from $60 to $800 a week, a number of whom enjoy also the assurance of good pensions on retirement and sick leave and vacations with pay.

The second group—the federal employes exempt from the state taxes, if any—take down about half a billion a year, according to the estimates which were being used as the basis of argument at the time the subject was allowed to drop last spring.

* * *

It has been impossible to estimate the amount of taxes which would be derived from these groups if the court rulings establishing the exemption were to be reversed or revoked by legislative enactment, but guess figures have placed the federal government's share at $15,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Still, even $15,000,000 would be worth the trouble of collection, as many non-exempt individuals have learned from experience with reviewers from the internal revenue department, who spend many hours going over old check stubs and after the most searching examination of the personal affairs of the accused turn in reports requiring them to pay $18 or $150, or even as little as $2.50 extra, plus interest from due date.

These exemptions date back to court decisions given long before the federal income tax amendment was adopted and are based on a thin theory that, if an established salary of a public position be taxed, that tax is a tax on the agency by which the individual is employed.

By the same theory it could be held that a tax on an ordinary working citizen in private industry is a tax on his employer, and the same answer refutes both contentions.

* * *

President Roosevelt gave the thing a little budge last year when he needled congress to pass "a short and simple statute" exposing federal salaries to the state income taxes and state, county and municipal pay to the federal tax, on the same terms that are applied to non-privileged citizens.

It was argued that this couldn't be done without a constitutional amendment, but the president popped back, quick like anything, that the constitutional amendment already existed—which was something that nobody else had thought of before.

* * *

Well, this inequality which deprives the deadhead passengers on the ship of state of the privilege of paying taxes on equality with their fellow-citizens probably will be remedied in this session of congress. It helps for redress, because the mere fact of a man's giving his life to his city in the role of clerk of the court, for example, shouldn't impair his right to share the burdens of the national government.

ROOSEVELT CHANGES STRATEGY IN DEALINGS WITH CONGRESS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt appeared today to be developing a new strategy in his dealings with congress.

It consists essentially in telling the lawmakers what the nation's problems are and leaving it up to them to work out solutions.

After meeting three days, congress was in adjournment for the week-end today with nearly a dozen problems on its hands but very few specific suggestions from Mr. Roosevelt on what to do about them.

Nor was there much belief that the president would volunteer advice at least for a time.

Mindful of charges that he has attempted to make a "rubber stamp" out of congress in the past, the chief executive apparently intends to avoid tactics which might serve to bulwark such complaints this session.

Developments to this end actually began before the session started. Mr. Roosevelt, faced with the most determined opposition he yet had encountered in either house, due to last fall's elections, called Vice-President Garner in from Texas for conferences.

Following the Garner meeting he called in other leaders for discussions, in keeping with the conference system he inaugurated last session. Then it was reported that government departments no longer would write bills for congress. They would give congress their requests, it was said, and congress would draft its own laws.

The president's annual message and his budget and special relief messages have strengthened expectation of a legislative hands-off policy.

MEET TO STUDY FRANKFURTER'S QUALIFICATIONS

Senate Sub-Committee Begin To Scrutinize Record of Court Appointee.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Public hearings on President Roosevelt's nomination of Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard university law school, as an associate justice of the U. S. supreme court, were ordered today.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Eight senators—members of a sub-committee of the judiciary committee—met today to consider the qualifications of Prof. Felix Frankfurter for the supreme court. Chairman Matthew M. Neeley (D., Wo. Va.) said that because of the criticism which followed the quick senate confirmation of the appointment of Justice Hugo L. Black, Frankfurter would be scrutinized thoroughly.

One committee member said that Frankfurter might be asked for his views on President Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization bill, which was rejected by the senate after a long fight in 1937.

In addition to Senator Neeley, the committee is made up of Sens. Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) Tom Connally (D., Tex.), James H. Hughes (D., Del.), Charles L. McNary (R., Ore.), William E. Borah (R., Ida.), Warren R. Austin (R., Vt.) and George W. Norris (Ind., Neb.)

Would Invite Justice.

"I think it would be a good idea for Mr. Frankfurter to be present," King said. "In view of the attitude of some persons who feel that he has been too closely identified with the New Deal. If I were Mr. Frankfurter, I would certainly ask for an invitation to appear."

McCarran said that he "would like very much to have a talk with Mr. Frankfurter."

It was learned that a friend of Frankfurter had been in communication with Neeley and had been advised that "it would be wise" for Frankfurter to be in Washington today so that he would be available if the committee desired to question him.

"There is little or no opposition to Mr. Frankfurter's nomination," Neeley said. "However, in view of the controversy that resulted from the senate's speedy confirmation of the nomination of Justice Hugo L. Black it is deemed wise to scrutinize all future supreme court appointments thoroughly."

Today's committee meeting will be open to the public. Neeley said that "any responsible person" would be heard, but that no witnesses had been called.

SCIENTIST TOPIC

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "The bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world" (John 6:33).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The preparations of the heart in man, and the answer of the tongue, is from the Lord . . . All the ways of a man are clean in his own eyes; but the Lord weigheth the spirits" (Proverbs 16:1,2).

SATURDAY JANUARY 7, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow—reckless drivers are becoming increasingly unpopular.

As fine a thing as can happen in 1939 is for many more people to have a job to go back to after a holiday.

Now that "The Citadel" takes place as the best motion picture of 1938, more people may be attracted to reading the book—which tells the complete story.

Pardon Follows Conviction.

A JURY of six men and six women in common pleas court at Mt. Vernon may be assumed to have acted in good faith in finding State Highway Director Ivan R. Ault guilty of soliciting campaign contributions from state civil service employes.

It may also be assumed that the judge acted in good faith, and under the law, when he fined Mr. Ault $300 and imposed two suspended 30-day jail sentences. Motion for a new trial was overruled.

The offenses for which Mr. Ault was convicted occurred in connection with Governor Davey's campaign for third-term nomination as governor. Yesterday Governor Davey issued a full pardon to Mr. Ault, as had been earlier anticipated.

Governor Davey's action in the matter was not surprising. But his attempted justification therefor was somewhat startling.

Deploring "the political nature of the prosecution and the suddenness with which a non-enforced law has been turned against good citizens of Ohio," the governor said in a statement issued in connection with the pardon. "The law prohibiting solicitation of contributions from civil service workers has been violated for many years and has been a dead letter from its enactment."

"The fact is," continues the governor's statement, "that if everybody in Ohio were prosecuted for violating the laws now on the statute books, many of which are dead letters through non-enforcement, it is probable that a large proportion of the population would be involved."

Here is a philosophy of law enforcement, coming from high authority, that explains many things.

It makes law enforcement selective, rather than impartial. It encourages violation of laws by any person who assumes the right to decide which laws should be obeyed and which ignored. It gives every policeman judicial authority to determine the extent of law enforcement on his own beat.

If Governor Davey has expressed the prevalent executive attitude toward Ohio laws it is high time for legislative action in clearing the books of "dead letter" statutes and providing some laws which even a governor will feel called upon to respect.

Advises More Flexible Theology.

GREAT progress has been made, within the past 150 years, in mastering material resources and increasing physical comforts. There have been a thousand and one social reforms," says Sir Richard Gregory, notable British scientist, addressing the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Richmond, Va.

But spiritually, we are still in the dark ages. "Man has advanced so little in spiritual evolution," he says, "that he is just as much a barbarian in his use of aerial bombs and poison gas as he was when his weapons were only clubs and arrows."

The question naturally arises, what shall man do to be saved. "The time has come," he maintains, "when exalted spiritual ideals must be combined with the results of scientific research. Whatever differences of opinion may exist as to the respective fields of religion and science, they meet on common ground in the pursuit of truth and its influence upon human conduct."

Science, he adds, is always ready to accept new ideas and interpretations of life. He wants theology to be similarly flexible. If it were, he thinks, religion could transform human life.

Drunken Driver Kills Pedestrian.

KANSAS CITY, MO., one of the cities making a determined effort to increase traffic safety, went through the first three days of the new year without a traffic fatality

Then it happened! A pedestrian died from injuries sustained when he was struck by a car driven by a man who was so drunk that he had to be helped from the car by policemen.

The police record showed that the same man had been arrested in 1928 for careless driving; in 1936 for driving carelessly while intoxicated, and in 1931 on a similar charge. All of which indicates that no serious attention was given to permanent revocation of the license of a drunken driver.

The 1939 safety program in all cities should more strongly stress the danger of driving after drinking, with more drastic efforts to keep drunken drivers off of streets and highways.

Free Mail and Leave to Print.

SMALL economies which the general public would be glad to see congress undertake are curtailment of the free mail privilege and the "leave to print," which so greatly swells the volume of the Congressional Record.

The annual report of the postoffice department shows that the postal service would pay its way, and might even make a little profit, if it didn't have to carry such a terrific amount of free mail sent by members of congress, government departments and other groups. Certain types of official mail, no doubt, should go free, but when the privilege is extended to take in a mass of political speeches and reports that go unread into thousands of wastebaskets, a check is indicated.

The Congressional Record is among the more expensive publications. As an actual record of the speeches and acts of the national legislative bodies, it is well worth publishing. It is when its pages are increased in number to carry speeches never made anywhere, and printed only to flatter and advertise congressional politicians, that the Record becomes a burden.

Reference to "republicrats" and "democans" gives some idea of the present confused state of affairs.

Keeping Step

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON—With the opening of congress, the strategy of the New Deal and the opposing Republican minority emerges in full bloom.

The Roosevelt administration is accenting the disordered foreign scene; the Republican minority is accenting the confused domestic scene.

That's why the President and the New Deal are thinking and speaking oftener and more strongly of national defense and preparedness, and the Republicans are talking more about unemployment, the unbalanced budget, and the danger of regimenting American industry.

Naturally both the New Deal and the opposition in Congress are taking out insurance — working both sides of the street, as it were. Neither side is so politically naive as to plunge in one direction or the other without leaving plenty of routes of retreat.

* * *

Trouble Expected.

IF the international tension increases, and the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo trio makes further advances in 1939, comparable to their victories of 1938 the administration seems to have the advantage. For then the dictator threat will be foremost in the public eye.

But if the tension drops off, and the dictator countries and Japan mark time, while consolidating gains then the Republicans will have the edge, because more attention will be paid to domestic affairs.

The administration strategy seems to be based on the belief that world events and violence are etching a deeper impression on the public mind than is apparent to the unpracticed eye.

Advisers must have figured that more disorder in the world will create more interest here in American foreign policy and adequate national defense.

* * *

Good Old Days.

ON the other hand, the Republicans seem to find their inspiration in the results of the November election. They discern in their gains a desire by John Q. Citizen to return to a balanced budget, to cut relief and other spending, and to end experiments in government.

So the Republicans hope to interest those people who want to restore the kind of prosperity the country knew in the years just before the 1929 crash, or as close to it as possible, without taking away newly won rights of labor and agriculture.

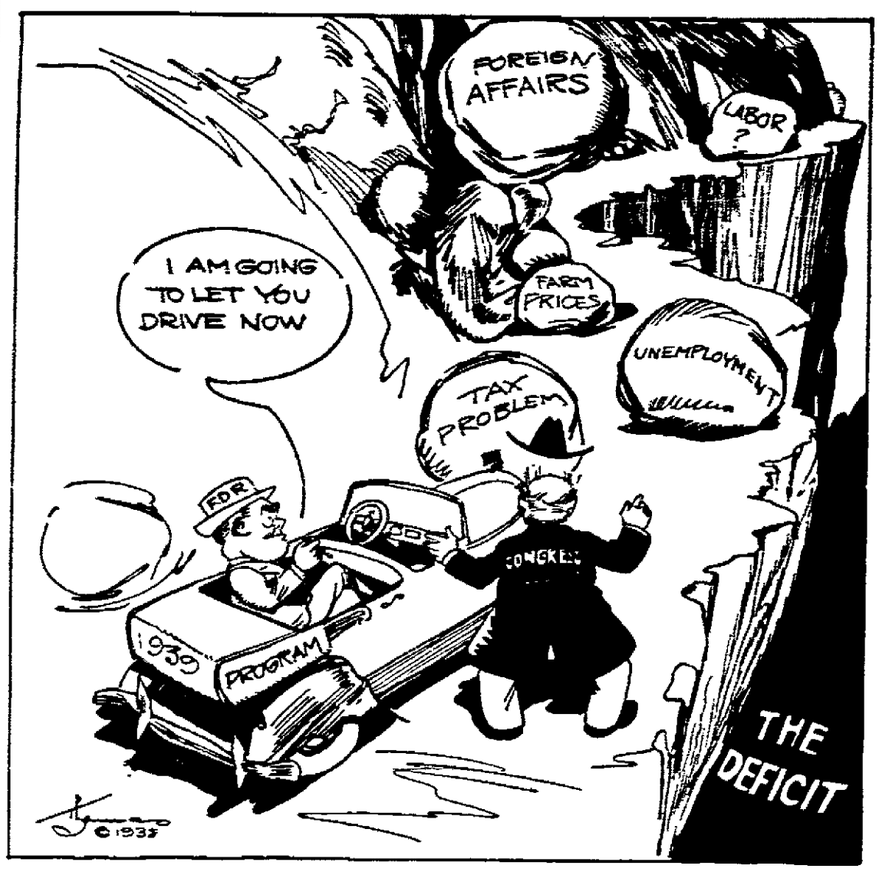
WITH ASSISTANCE FROM THE REAR



Look To Dr. Congress For Cure

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congress, getting busy with its 1939 activities, has, notably, three very sick patients to doctor.

1. Sick agriculture.
2. Sick railroads.
3. A sick federal treasury.

Our manufacturing industries and our commerce have been sick but they are well on their way toward recovery.

Our foreign relationships constitute a problem but a problem is different from sickishness. It is a problem involving the question of national defense, but our defensive set-up is not sick, either. It is run down a bit, but it can be built up again quite readily and speedily with about a billion dollars' worth of army and navy cod liver oil and aerial vitamins.

Agriculture and the railroads are sicker than pups, however, and the treasury is sickening—I mean getting sicker, with every prospect that it will be out-and-out sickening presently.

Doctors Disagree.

The worst of it is that doctors disagree almost hopelessly.

Agriculture's case is chronic. In my personal opinion it dates back to the beginning of our intensive protective tariff era, the start on a diet which was our manufacturers' meat but our farmers' poison.

Dr. Henry A. Wallace is our best recognized specialist on rural ills. He is a good one, too—in theory. Next to Dr. Cordell Hull my own notion is that Henry is the ablest practitioner in President Roosevelt's medical cabinet. But Dr. Hull does not specialize on agriculture. Indirectly his international trade prescriptions may result beneficially to the farmers, but those prescriptions are TOO indirect. Agriculture is afraid of dying in the meantime. Dr. Wallace tries to administer stimulants — something speedy. But they do not "take"—that is the trouble. Oh, if Dr. Arthur Capper did not belong to the G. O. P. school of medicine! He KNOWS something about the farmers' indisposition. But what is the use?—he is a minority doctor.

Youthful Excesses.

The railroads are present-day victims of their own youthful excesses.

It is nearly impossible for any doctor to go back into a patient's remote past and make a man of him in later life, as if he had not been a grafter and tough in his 20's.

Dr. Burton K. Wheeler and Dr. Clarence F. Lea, respectively chairmen of the senate and house interstate commerce clinics, are doing their darnedness to cure the railroads. If they get away with it they will be wonders. A misspent early career, in the 1800's, is hard to correct in this century.

The Federal Treasury.

It was proclaimed well in advance that the federal treasury could stand a 40-billion dollar debt without over-straining matters. After that it was conceded we should have overdone matters.

Well, we are considerably above the 40-billion mark.

Yet Dr. Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board's emergency hospital asserts that we have not had anything like an overdose to date. Moreover, if we do cut down on the dose, our manufacturing industries and commerce immediately show signs of suffering from the deficiency.

Congress's Problem.

Congress's problem?

It is damned if it does and damned if it doesn't.

The session of congress will be very controversial.

Timely Editorial

'Rough Spots' Recognized.

The news that the Administration itself will suggest amendments designed to iron out "rough spots" in the Wage and Hour Standards law seems good news.

The nature of the rough spots in mind is not disclosed. The inference is, however, that they refer to such questions as the law's application to "semi-executives," a matter that lately has caught the attention of Administrator Andrews.

On an inspection trip across the country Andrews was impressed by a series of complaints that the law simply does not make sense in seeking to limit the hours of many salaried employes. This was something discussed but passed over in the congressional debate preceding the law's enactment.

It was evident then that an executive-administrative employe's services are not capable of being turned on and off as the whistle blows. It simply was ing unreal to assume they could be treated in the same way routine workers' services may be treated.—Detroit News.

A Ghastly Song . . . So Hear It!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALL this uproar against war—I'd like to believe it would stick. But I've seen too much . . . Frankly I fear that most of us will go—drooling drunk for battle—at the first roar of the drums, just as we've always done. Unless "Dawn Patrol" cures us.

No, it isn't "just another war picture," this "Dawn Patrol." There's something in it that really gets through . . . hits you where you live. That ghastly song, f'instance. If you can listen to that awful song, and not bear the brand of it for life—well, I give up!

The thing starts simply enough. A shattered sector "somewhere in France," like a thousand others in 1918. Drizzly dawn . . . bits of wrecked buildings, dilapidated planes, emerging from the mist. Then, abruptly, you're past that strange, slimy silence and into the blare and bellow of a room jam-packed with men. Or what's left of men when War's got its fangs into them. Men moving around like automatons in the sweat-stiffened shirts they'd worn for days. Eyes stretched like stiffened films across their blood-shot sockets. Mouths gaping like grinning wounds above their necks. And, out of those throats—great, slobbering spurts of laughter . . . yowls, caterwauls, hemorrhages of laughter—"so a fellow wouldn't think."

Then, capping that, that incredible song . . . Don't know the words, but I'll remember the refrain till I die. The sight and sound of them packed together . . . with the cracked record whining and their dead eyes staring . . . and those awful mouths wagging like wooden clappers—

"Umpety . . ump . . ta . . tumpty—
"Diddley . . doop . . tee . . ti—
"A toast to the man who's li-i-iv-ing—
"HURRAH FOR THE NEXT WHO DIES!"

What a brute of a song! What an obscene desecration of all that men are or dream — that they should have to sing a song like that or go mumbling mad.

For, don't kid yourself, they would have gone. Some of them had gone already. They'd seen too much . . . felt too much . . . since those first days when they'd come out, all aflame with fury and faith. Then, bit by bit, they'd gone dead inside. Seeing the beastliness of it all . . . the brazen hypocrisy and vicious indifference—And the broken bodies of the men they'd loved that were the prize of that indifference!

And now there were no more men left to kill. Only the kids. The eager, laughing little kids . . . half-grown youngsters, scarce out of their 'teens . . . come to take the places of those who had gone. And never dreaming of what lay ahead!

Little, little boys . . . going up and up to glory! Falling down—and down—to die! With one gasping, God-sent vision of the place they'd once called "home" . . . and one frightened, sobbing whisper, "Mother, help me! MOTHER—COME!"

Little boys dying in agony . . . men vomiting their agony in song . . . men and earth alike, blasted and despoiled of all future harvest. That is what War does. That is what War IS. Not "a gal-land adventure" . . . BUT FOULEST TRICKERY AND MOST WANTON WASTE!

Here is the Truth about War—"THE TRUTH THAT WILL SET MEN FREE"—

FREE FROM THE SLIMY SENTIMENTALITY THAT MAKES WAR SEEM BEAUTIFUL.

AND THE FALSE PATRIOTISM THAT MAKES WAR SEEM NECESSARY—

AND THE CRIMINAL INDIFFERENCE THAT MAKES IT POSSIBLE—

FOR YOUR OWN SAKE AND YOUR COUNTRY!

Ohio Anecdotes

Found Ohio's Iron Ore.

Development of the mineral resources of southeastern Ohio has been credited largely to the geologic studies of Dr. Caleb Briggs, long a resident of Ironton, where he died Sept. 24, 1884.

Despite the fact that Briggs received a medical training, he made extensive surveys of geologic formations in the iron and coal areas of Ohio, embarking on the venture in June, 1837. Soon afterward, the section including Athens, Gallia, Hocking, Jackson and Lawrence counties became literally dotted with iron furnaces, and for 50 years the area formed the center of iron ore extraction in this country.

Recognition of his success came when he was engaged to survey Crawford, Tuscarawas, Wood and other counties, for whatever wealth lay hidden underground. Later he was engaged similarly in Virginia. At his death, Briggs bequeathed Ironton $25,000 for a public library.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

The President . . . shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient.

BECAUSE the Founding Fathers wrote those words into the U. S. constitution 152 years ago, Franklin D. Roosevelt made a 3,500-word speech last Wednesday afternoon. Addressing a joint House-Senate meeting of the 76th Congress, on the second day of its first session, he said in part:

On foreign affairs—"A war which threatened to envelop the world in flames has been averted; but it has become increasingly clear that peace is not assured . . . At the very least, we can and should avoid any action, or any lack of action, which will encourage, assist or build up an aggressor . . . Probability of attack is mightily decreased by the assurance of an ever ready defense."

On domestic affairs—"We have now passed the period of internal conflict in the launching of our program of social reform. Our full energies may now be released to invigorate the processes of recovery in order to preserve our reforms, and to give every man and woman who wants to work a real job at a living wage . . . We want to get enough capital and labor at work to give us a . . . national income of at least $80,000,000,000 a year. At that figure . . . the federal revenues will be sufficient to balance the current level of cash expenditures on the basis of the existing tax structure."

In general the President's tone was that it's up to Congress to devise the machinery for accomplishing what the country wants or needs. He specifically recommended these items to its consideration: Adjustment of tax inequalities, ways of ending factional labor strife and employer-employe disputes, governmental reorganization, perfection of the federal farm program, railroad relief, extension of social security and revision of the neutrality laws. And he promised a special message next week on national defense.

Grist For The Mill.

The new Congress, in its first three days, received three other communications that made headlines almost as tall and black as the President's "state of the Union" mesage:

1. A House committee headed by Rep. Martin Dies, of Texas, after a five-months inquiry into un-Americanism, reported Tuesday: "We are convinced that a large part of the espionage and un-American activities and propaganda carried on in this country can be directly traced to the failure of the Labor Department to enforce the deportation laws of the land."

2. A Senate committee headed by Sen. Morris Sheppard, also of Texas, after investigating complaints of unfair electioneering in the primary and November campaigns, reported the same day: The committee believes that funds appropriated by the Congress for the relief of those in need and distress have been in many instances diverted from these high purposes to political ends."

3. Mr. Roosevelt, in his budget message Thursday, called for $8,995,633,200 of federal spending (plus $100,000,000 for debt retirement) in the fiscal year that begins next July 1, as compared with a new forecast of $9,492,329,000 for this year (including $750,000,000 more needed for WPA from Feb. 8 through June 30). Major items in the 1939-40 budget: $1,609,000,000 for defense, $1,500,000,000 for relief. By July 1, 1940, he figured, the national debt would total $44,458,000,000—barely half a billion under the present statutory limit. He advised, however, against "violent contraction" in spending or "drastic new taxes."

At Home

Murphy For Cummings.

Though born in a log cabin, Frank Murphy lost his race for re-election as Michigan's governor last November. This week, on the same day his successor (Republican Frank Fitzgerald) was inaugurated, Murphy was sworn into President Roosevelt's cabinet as attorney general. He succeeds Homer S. Cummings, who retired Jan. 1 to private law practice in Connecticut.

Murphy got into politics as a stump speaker for Woodrow Wilson in 1912. After service with the AEF, he returned to Detroit as a federal prosecutor of war graft cases. Soon he became a city judge, then mayor. President Roosevelt sent him to the Philippines in 1933 as governor general, but he was back to campaign successfully for governor in 1936 as an apostle of the New Deal.

His critics, including witnesses before the Dies committee on un-Americanism, say he was lax about enforcing the law against sit-downers in the 1937 Michigan auto strikes. His admirers, including Mr. Roosevelt, say Murphy deserves a big hand for having restored labor peace without bloodshed.

A red-haired Irish bachelor of 45, he likes to ride and box and denies he wears dazzling pajamas.

Signals Off.

About a year ago, NLRB directed Ford Motor Co. to rehire 29 men and to stop interfering with the self-organization of its workers. Then, last April, the board sought to withdraw the order for revision. Ford attorneys, confident the courts wouldn't uphold the original order, tried to block its withdrawal. But the Supreme Court, this week, ruled that NLRB could back up for a new start.

* * *

To The Victor.

Republicans harvested 100,000 political plums this week as a result of ousting 15 Democratic state administrations in the November elections, the Civil Service Reform league estimated, while Democrats reaped 10,000 jobs as their reward for upsetting Republican regimes in two states.

An exception to the spoils system was reported from Nogales, Ariz., where Mrs. Mary Bettwy, Democratic recorder-elect, appointed her Republican opponent in November, Mrs. Ada Jones, as deputy recorder.

* * *

Casualties.

Death took no holiday over the three-day New Year's weekend: Auto crashes killed 200 Americans. Fires, drownings, murders, suicides, hunting accidents, asphyxiations, airplane crackups, etc., claimed over 100 more. Twenty-six killed themselves in New York City. Five, including a mother and her three children, perished in a hotel fire at Rumford, Me. One coal miner died but 19 others were rescued from a burning mine at Clinton, Ind.

Abroad

Counter-Demonstration.

In Rome, where Fascists recently have demonstrated their hankering for some Mediterranean territories that belong to France, the French ambassador made a New Year's Eve speech: "France will not buy repose at any price. She will defend her property. . . ."

In Paris, that night, Premier Daladier rammed his munitions-bulged 1939 budget through the French Senate. Next day, assured the budget would pass the Chamber of Deputies also, gruff M. Daladier set off to inspect some of the territories mentioned by the ambitious Italians.

Refugee Relief?

To a world worried over what to do about Europe's racial and religious pogroms, the new year's first week brought these developments:

1. Three Pennsylvania Quakers, home from Berlin, said the Nazi government had promised its "fullest cooperation" in their plan to provide immediate relief for non-Aryans in Germany and to speed the emigration of Jewish family heads.

2. Montagu Norman, "silent giant" of British finance, went to Berlin to see his friend Hjalmar Schacht, reichsbank president, about getting Jews out of Germany—and about preventing an Anglo-German trade war.

3. President Roosevelt, through the U. S. ambassador to Rome, sent Benito Mussolini a message (contents secret) on the Semitic question and possible solutions.

Derelict's Death.

Legend says that aged elephants, knowing they are about to die, leave their herd and go to a secret place. Eben True Aldrich, wealthy Massachusetts mental specialist, did likewise. Knowing he soon would die of cancer, Dr. Aldrich disappeared in 1934, turned up as "James Harrigan," a derelict pauper, in New York's Cancer Institute. He died within a year, but his story came out only recently when detectives found that keys Aldrich left at a New York bank fitted bags "Harrigan" left at a Bowery hotel.

Jean Val Jean.

Nineteen years ago, Alexander Ripan was convicted on circumstantial evidence of murdering a neighbor at Saginaw, Mich. After serving nine years of a life sentence, he broke jail. After running a shoe repair shop in Indiana for seven years, he was recaptured. This week, after three more years in prison, he went free. New evidence showed the bullet that killed his neighbor couldn't have been fired from Ripan's gun.
